Ir seems to be an established fact that China shall enjoy all the privileges and be exempt from-all-the responsibilities of civilised nations. It seems clear from this supineness that the Chinese Authorities were not in any way. disposed to interfere with the plunderers of the vessel, and probably they had good reasons for looking leniently upon their doings. A good round bribe to underlings in such cases has often had a marvellous effect in shutting the Celestial eye to peccadilloes such as plundering wrecks, and it is probable that the officials at Foochow would consider it far too great a departure from recognised traditions to interfere needlessly with any such little innocent diversions. What need could there be for such interference so long as they know that they will not incur, any serious responsibility for their negligonce? At most they may have to answer a dispatch or two from the Consuls with the full knowledge that the affair will drop in due time. Under such circumstances they are naturally little disposed to move against the wreckers, whose weaknesses as a lule, they look upon with marked com-

> In the face of these distinct treaty obligations; with European built gunbouts actually in port, the Foothow authorities did absolutely nothing to prevent the vesse being plundered. "Not merely," says the protest by the Foochow Chamber, "did the authorities allow the wreck to become the property of a number of pirates, but no steps whatever appear to have been taken by them for the recovery of the property so plundered." According to the reply from the Consul, it had been reported to him that the local authorities had made a fresh seizure of Silk and Tea that had "been taken out of the Canton or picked up when floating near the wreck." No doubt this tardy action has been brought about by their getting wind of the remonstrances which were about to be made; and they will of course endeavour to show by this that they have done all that they are called upon to do by the treaty. But this obviously fails as an answer, as although it forms some sort of a compliance with Art.

fray. He did not bark, but he was frenzied with passion to that degree that tears trickled down his blunt nose, and his gasping became each moment more shrill and hysterical. He needed no urging on for the first 'round,' at all events. As soon as the umpire called Let go. the dirty, glaring, furious brute sprang forward with an impetuoeity that caused the last link of its chain to click with a ringing sound against the staple which beld it. The dwarf, bowever, was not to be stormed and defeated all in a moment. Once the ghastly fight began, there was a dire-fascination in it; and I now noted closely the combat. The man was on all-fours when the words 'Let go' were attered, and making accurate allowance for the length of the dog's chain, be arched his back catwise, so as just to escape its fanzs. and fetched it a blow on the crown of its head that brought it almost to its knees. The dog's recovery, however, was instantaneous, and before red trickling. He grinned scornfully, and sucked the place; but there was tremendous excitement among the bull-dog's backers, who clapped their hands with delight, rejoicing in the honour of first blood. The bairy dwarf was still smiling, however, and while Dan'l held his dog, preparatory to letting it go for Round 2, he was actually provoking it as much as he could, hissing at it, and presenting towards it the bleeding arm. Tus animal, flushed possibly with his first success, made for its opponent in a sudden lesp, but the dwarf leapt forward too, and smota the buil-dog such a tremendous blow under the ear as to roll it completely over, evidently bewildering it for a moment, and causing it to bleed freely, to the frantic joy of the friends of the man beast. But they in turn were made to look serious, for with astonishing energy Physio turned about, and with a dash was again at the dwarf, and this time contrived to fix its teeth in one of his hairy arms, a terrible gash appearing as the man anatched the limb out of bis ravenous jaws. The buil-dog was licking his lips, and had fewer tears in his eyes as his master drew him back. As for the Dwarf, he retired to his corner for a whet of brandy and a moment's comforting with the towel. He was ready and smiling again, however, for Round 3, and this time it was a fight in carnest, the dog worrying the men, and the man dealing it terrific blows on the ribs and on the head with those sledgehammer fists, till in the end both the man's arms were bleeding and a horribly cheerful basiness was going on babind the ropes at 2 w I on Physic. But let me make short work of the enguing seven 'rounds, which in some of their details were so shooking that more than once I would have left the place if I could. The company generally, bowever, were made of far less sensitive stuff. The more furious the chastly fight, the keener was their reliab for it. and in their excitement they leant over each other's shoulders and over the rope, and mouthed and snarled and attered gutteral noises when a good bit or snap was made, just as the dog and the dwarf were doing. By the time Round 10 was concluded, the bull dog's bead was swelled much beyond its accustomed size; it had lost two feets, and one of its eyes was en tirely shut up; while as for the dwarf, his fists, as well as his arms, were recking, and bis bideous face was ghastly pal with rage and despair of victory. Fate was kind to him, however. In Round 11 the 50 years has proved them to be the best and most suitable for the climate. C. L. & Co. have received a large number of very fluttering testimonials from all parts of India, China, Burmah, Ceylon, Manila, Java, Straits, and Persia, testifying to the superior make and quality of their Billiard Tables, and while thanking their Friends and Patrone in China for the liberal support so long extended to their firm, would, in seliciting further patronage, beg to mention the following facts which have conduced to the DEST PORTLAND CEMENT and FIRE success their efforts bave hitherto met with. Every table is made of solid wood, well seasoned and not vencered. The Cushions are constructed on an entirely new principle, introduced by C. L and Co., and unlike that adopted by English P. & O. S. N. Co.'s Office, makers, and are much more durable and lively than English-made sushions. No table leaves O. L. and Co.'s premises until it has been stunding ready finished for over 12 months, in order to onenre perfectly seasoned material. Every article of furniture, also, that leaves C. LAZA. Rus and Co.'s Establishment, is guaranteed of Solid and Seasoned Wood. O. THE REVIVAL OF THE LIBERAL PARTY.

The following verses were appended to a circular recently issued by the Liberal Whip fraying the lithographing expenses of his office. The Times compared Mr. Gladstone's speech on Monday to the return of Achilles. also found its Tyrtaeus?

Dejected, desponding, despairing, forlorn, Driven forth from that Bench which we used to adorn; In the wilds of Obstruction we dismaily room, While Dizzy inhabits our old happy home, And oft with deep feeling we murinur, "O when Shall we sit on the Treasury Bench once again? Our views are uncertain-our policy 'ril" -Yet a Party is not only formed to sit still. A man-bent on living-must est and must drink; And a Party's expected to act and to think. But Gladstone has left who carried the brains, And a wretched "residuum" is all that remains:

By distrust and dissension continually tossed. Each day we drift further from Paradise Lost. "But a thought strikes my mind," cries old Adam delighted, I see how the party may still be united: I'll get Mr. Dunthorn and bid him go round And ask from each liberal Member one pound; The emount we'll divide—at least such is my notion— In three parts, between Hartington, Forster, and Goschen (The fourth share will be freely relinquished I know By that other great leader—I mean Robert Lowe);

New vigour, new life, and new valour shall feel; With plenty of leaders and plenty of money, If we can't find a policy, sure it is funny! Then go, my dear Dunthorn, go rapidly round, Collect from each Member his liberal pound; And no doubt we'll be able from all that appears To turn out the Tories in less than ten years!

This picture originally belonged lor, painter, a brother of Joseph Taylor, a player-of Shakespeare's company. It was left by Taylor, by will, at his death, to Sir William Davenant. Davenant dying insolvent, the administration of his effects was granted in 1668 to John Otway, by which means this picture came into his possession. After Otway's death, Betterton, the actor, bought the picture. At Betterton's death itwas, in a like manner, bought by Mrs. Barry, the actress, who afterwards sold it for forty guineas to Robert Keck, of the Temple. From Keck it went by inheritance to a Mr. Nicholls, and thence to Mr. Nicholls's only daughter, who was married to James, Marquis of Caernarvon, afterwards Duke of Did it never strike you (it is my ambition Chandos.
